COMPRESIÓ DE TEXTOS ESCRITS (TRUE/FALSE)

The keepers

People belonging in this category consider security and stability to be very important, and therefore they are not fond of change. They also give importance to tradition and believe that rules should be respected. They are individuals who can be very kind and trustworthy, and they dislike breaking promises. They display patience and have a very good ability to concentrate. They get disappointed if others let them down because it is something that they try to avoid doing. They pay attention to detail and can be very sensitive; however, sometimes they might find it difficult to cope with criticism or conflict with other people.

The free spirits

This category describes people who are confident and spontaneous, and therefore planning things is not their cup of tea. They are generally sociable, extrovert and direct. They enjoy action. They don't enjoy theoretical ideas or philosophical discussions, which they usually consider to be a bore. This category dislikes rules and laws and believes them to be mere suggestions rather than strict principles that somebody should live by. These individuals are usually optimistic and always work hard to achieve their goals. However, they can get bored easily if something does not excite them.

The Scholars

This category describes personalities which exhibit a strong intuition and logic. These are people who put reason above all other things. They are very rational and quick-witted people and display excellent communication skills. People belonging in this category are natural-born leaders because of their decisiveness and willpower. They dislike showing emotions and consider them to be a sign of weakness. This does not mean that these individuals cannot be compassionate; they can show understanding for people who are suffering. However, it is an area which they could try to develop more. Some of the individuals in this group can be very shy when meeting new people, but they are very friendly when they interact with people they know. They are also individuals who can be very honest but at times can also be considered rude.

The Dreamers

The people who belong in this category are very imaginative and observant. They are usually people who are shy and introverted. They are emotional and believe that feelings should be expressed and not hidden. Some of the people that have this personality type can be mesmerizing when giving a speech or talking to others, while others have excellent writing skills. They also don't like conforming but prefer to take their own path instead of following others. However, their sensitivity, which can make them overthink situations or other people's feelings, can sometimes cause them a lot of stress.
