Enter the dragons

One of the most amazing events I have (1) been to is the Hong Kong dragon boat races. The city's harbor, (2) is an ideal location for the event, has been the site of the championship several times (3) the 1970s. The people of Hong Kong look (4) it each summer. The harbor is packed with (5) and supporters of the different crews. It happens on what is known as 'poet's day', which (6) us of a legend about a famous poet who drowned. However, his ghost later appeared and (7) people how to protect themselves against dark forces. He is now remembered as (8) national hero. Dragons are very important in Chinese culture, and the dragon boats are (9) after the dragon's head that (10) one carries at the front. The race (11) be a local affair but it has become an international event. Teams from around the world come to take (12) in it. (13) most of the boats and crews are still from the region, crews from as far away as France and New Zealand compete, too. (14) the race, the crew paddles while one team member hits a drum and (15) one steers the boat. The atmosphere is electric and the noise simply unbelievable.
